Teachers at Independent Day School-Corbett Campus Inspire Young Writers

What event could bring together a dolphin named Winter, the technology of SKYPE, and young authors?

Come find out at Independent Day School-Corbett Campus' annual Young Authors' Day on Monday, April 5, 2010 at 8am.

How do teachers inspire students to write with a purpose?

See it first-hand; a dynamic faculty going above and beyond, ensuring that their learners witness the impact non-fiction writing can have on wildlife and the environment.

A real-life story will unfold in real time, via SKYPE, as the IDS-CC student body watches one of their own 4th grade students swim with Winter, a rehabilitated dolphin. Live, students will have the opportunity to ask Winter's dedicated trainers questions. The entire day will ensue with exciting activities that pursue the art of writing with the world in mind.

Join us at Independent Day School-Corbett Campus for this unprecedented occasion!
